cause of his long cruises. Lloyd Phemix is one of the old members of the club. He handles his yacht himself and keeps her as well equipped and his crew under as much discipline as on a ship.

Then the fleet broadened out, the yachts anchoring in close order. There were ninety-seven in the harbor during the afternoon. Some of the yachts that started from Glen Cove had gone out of the harbor for some other port and will join the fleet again at Newport.

The I nited States training cruiser Newport anchored in the middle of the fleet of pleasure craft, making a strong contrast. Excursion steamers reached the harbor about noon, the New Hampshire and Plymouth having big crowds on board from New York just to see the N. Y. Y. C. fleet.

Early in the morning the schooner Westward was taken under tow into smooth water. Mr. Morgan and Capt. Christiansen studied her line of flotation carefully and then made some slight chances in her trim which they think will improve her sailing qualities. They are not satisfied with the way the yacht has sailed in the two runs and think changes may enable her to hold the Elena.

This afternoon Robert E. Tod held a reception on the Karina. Wilson Marshall and John F. Lovejoy from the Atlantic cailed and inspected the vessel against which Atlantic is to sail next Friday. Commodore F. Lewis Clark of the Eastern Yacht Club and owner of the Emerald was another who was much interested in the big three masted schooner.

Formorrow morning the fleet will 'leave Fort Pond Bay. The course for the cing craft will be from Sarah's Ledge a mark three-quarters of a mile north Rocky Point. The boats must leave entellation Rock buoy to port and Certain Shoal to starboard. The distance is enty-one miles. This run was selected that the yachts might have some winding work during the cruise and if the wind odd he about south to-morrow they will be good tests on that point of sailing. The thirty footers are to have a long ce at the end of the cruise back to New rock. They are to start from Brenton's left light vessel on Friday morning and it to the Ambrose Channel lightship at entrance to New York harbor. H. moving with proper mitirary order The following have been assigned by the harbor. Astern of her was the new karina, and these two yachts are to meet in a race for the historic Brenton's Reef cur.

They differ materially in type and size. The Atlantic is sleek looking, low and graceful. She is painted black. The Karina is high sided, about 50 feet longer, and her three masts tower higher than those of any yacht in the fleet except the Aloha. So much interest is being taken in the race that some hets have been made, with the Atlantic favorite.

Astern of the Karina was the Westward, Alexander S. Cochran's fine schooner. She too was one of the favorites in the fleet because of her international record and because Mr. Cochran went to the trouble and expense of bringing her back to this country and putting her in racing trim so that Morton Plant, who built the Elena for this season's sport, wouldn't be disappointed.

The three masted Alcyone was next in line. She looks as if she could race well with the big yachts, but her owner prefers cruising. The Intrepid was abreast of the Alcyone. She is another popular yacht. Her owner is known all over the world because of his long cruises. Lloyd Phemix is one of the old members of the club.
